

Father's Day 2007 is on June 17th. Many fathers will rightfully receive gifts from their children in appreciation for all they have done in the home. But Father's Day can also be a time for young fathers to think deeply about their commitment to their families. It is a time to make sure that everything they are doing is for the spiritual, mental and physical wellbeing of their kids. Take a moment to read and reflect on the following from Tom Moore.

Your Child Deserves...

- Your child deserves to hear you pray earnestly and often.
- Your child deserves to go to worship and Bible classes with you regularly.
- Your child deserves to see you sacrifice for the Lord.
- Your child deserves to go with you to visit the sick and bereaved.
- Your child deserves to be taught the Bible by you.
- Your child deserves to hear you praise the church and her leaders.
- Your child deserves to be encouraged by you to seek and obey the truth always.
- Your child deserves to see you putting the Lord first in your giving.
- Your child deserves to know the Christ living in you.

It is a humbling list, isn't it!? Congratulations to all the fathers out there who faithfully discharge their duties. May God bless.

See you Sunday! -gls
